

Subscribing to an RSS Feed Using Internet Explorer 7

RSS feeds are used to distribute frequently updated content so users receive the information as soon as it is available. For more information about RSS, view the RSS Frequently Asked Questions list.

Determining if a Feed Is Available

The new version of Internet Explorer, version 7.0, has an RSS viewer built into it. If a Web page has a feed available, the RSS symbol on the toolbar turns orange and becomes available for use.

Displaying a List of Available Feeds

Clicking the RSS button on the toolbar displays a list of all RSS feeds the page has available.

Subscribing to the Feed

1. Select the feed from the list to which you would like to subscribe. You are taken to a page that displays the current content of the feed.

2. Click the Subscribe to this Feed link. The Subscribe to Feed dialogue box appears.

3. Click Subscribe. Once the action is completed, you receive a success message. The RSS feed is now added to your list of feeds.

Viewing Your Feeds

1. Choose View>Explorer Bar>Feeds from the toolbar. A list of all the feeds to which you have subscribed appears on the left side of your screen.

2. Click the feed whose items you wish to view. The items appear in the main portion of your browser window. Feeds that appear in bold print have new items available to view.
